

Economic Overview

Earlier in the year there were fears that the U.S economy would slip into recession given high inflation and a tight labor market, but the economy has remained resilient and is now poised for a "soft landing". Moderation in job and wage growth are positive indicators and inflation is down significantly from the peak in June 2022. Throughout much of the third quarter the U.S. unemployment rate hovered between 3.5% and 3.8%. Job growth is strongest in health care, leisure and hospitality, social assistance and construction. Possible headwinds facing the economy during the last quarter of the year include a decrease in consumer spending, a slowing job market and further interest rate hikes.

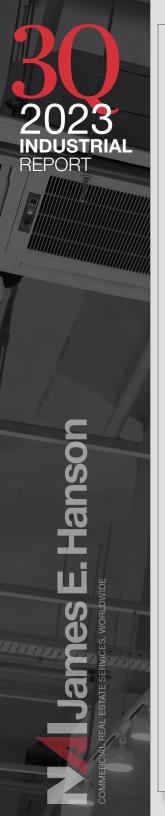

After several months of remaining below the national unemployment rate, the New Jersey unemployment rate jumped to 4.2% at the end of the summer, from 3.0% one year ago. While the overall unemployment rate is up the Garden State is sill at historically high numbers for both employers and workers according the NJ Department of Labor and Workforce Development. Job gains occurred in seven of the nine major private-sector categories, led by professional and business services and education and health care.

Market Overview

Questions about the national economy did not have a major effect on the New Jersey industrial market. Demand for warehouse and distribution space by e-commerce and 3PL firms are still driving activity in market but there are signs that trends may be moderating. The addition of available supply in recent construction completions coupled with an increase in sublease space seem to indicate that the market is "normalizing" after several years of hyper-growth.

The overall vacancy rate rose during the third quarter up to 3.8%, from 2.3% at the same time last year. The rise in the vacancy rate comes amid the delivery of nearly 4.0 million square feet of new product during the quarter, where 60.0% of space is available. Comparatively, New Jersey remains below the national industrial vacancy rate of 4.2%. Vacancy rates within the fourteen submarkets range from a high of 6.4% in Brunswick/Exit 9, to a low of 1.7% in Exit 8A. Average asking rents continued to rise but at a more measured pace than they have over the last few years . The highest rents are not surprisingly, in the Ports and Meadowlands submarkets, where average rates are over $16.50 per square foot.

Market Pricing

Average asking rates continued to move higher but the pace at which they have risen has slowed. Year-over-year asking rents have increased by 13.0%, compared to a nearly 20.0% rise from third quarter 2021 to third quarter 2023. After surpassing the $14.00 per square market in the first quarter, rates rose incrementally through the end of the third quarter.

13.0% Increase versus 3Q 2022

Asking rates in all of the fourteen submarkets tracked by NAI James E Hanson rose over the last 12 months but rates are beginning to show signs of stabilizing. At the end of the third quarter, rates in the Ports and Meadowlands are highest with Hunterdon and Morris offering the lowest pricing.

Vacancy, Absorption & Leasing

3Q2023 vs. 3Q2022

3.8% Vacancy Rate

-2.6M SF Absorption

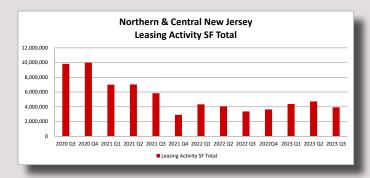

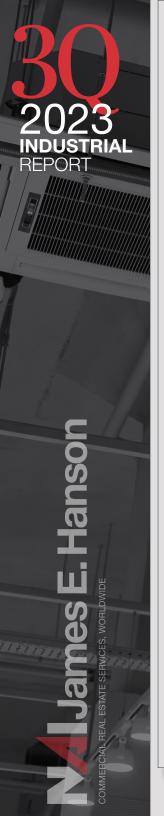

3.9M SFLeasing Activity

Although leasing activity was slightly higher than the same time last year, absorption was significantly lower, and the vacancy rate moved higher. The addition of available space in newly constructed buildings attributed to the change in both vacancy and absorption.

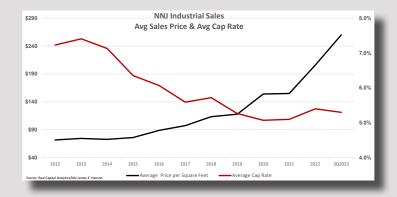

Investment Sales

A challenging interest rate environment did not deter investors from buying industrial properties with quarterly dollar volume reaching $623 million. Although the demand for industrial properties remains strong, the number of potential investors has declined. The average price per square foot maintained upward momentum, finishing the quarter at $260 per square foot.

More than 3.6 million square feet of industrial property changed hands during the third quarter, while cap rates held steady in the low-to-mid 5.0% range as they have for the last several quarters.

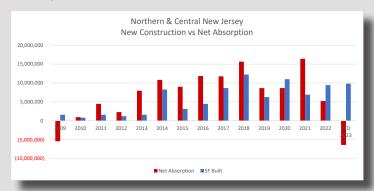

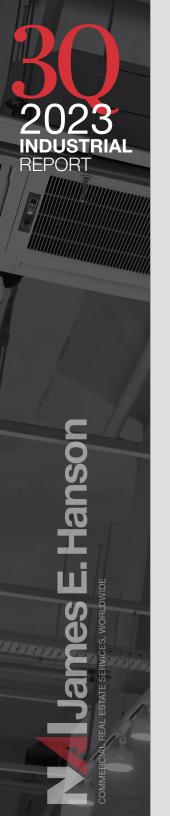

New Construction

Though new construction starts have leveled, there are still more than 20 million square feet of industrial product under construction. The submarkets with the most amount of square footage currently under construction are Exit 10/12, Ports and the Meadowlands. Of the current projects, more than 12 million square feet is slated for completion before the end of the year.

Except for 2020, net absorption outpaced new construction for 13 years. In 2022, however the square footage from new deliveries surpassed the amount of space absorbed and that trend continued into the third quarter of 2023. Of the 9.3 million square feet delivered year-to-date, more than 7.0 million square feet remains available.
